

Know Someone Who'd be Interested in the NextGen Leaders Program?

Help students, recent graduates, and veterans with disabilities discover an opportunity to build professional skills, learn from experienced mentors, expand their network, and connect with leading companies.

Share with a friend, your campus community or office of people with disabilities, colleagues, or professional network. Use these ready-to-share messages to spread the word.

Sample Social Posts + Graphics (Click to Download .Zip):

Professional skills. Mentorship. Community. Connections with leading companies.

▶ @Disability:IN's NextGen Leaders Program brings these things together during a six-month development program for students, recent graduates, and veterans with disabilities. Looking to accelerate your future?

Explore eligibility and application details: <https://bit.ly/4rwhu8t>

One of the most helpful things early in your professional life is having someone who believes in you. Someone who can offer feedback, share what they've learned, and help you think through your options.

▶ That's part of what @Disability:IN's NextGen Leaders Program offers, alongside professional learning, connections with leading companies, and a community of peers with disabilities.

If you're a student, recent graduate, or veteran with a disability, it's worth exploring. And if someone came to mind while you were reading this, consider sending it their way. <https://bit.ly/4rwhu8t> #NextGen #AreYouIN?

Follow Disability:IN on Social Media:

LinkedIn @Disability:IN

Facebook @DisabilityIN

Instagram @DisabilityIN

